"Still learning!!"

Background

As I always say, moviemaking is a thing I am really fascinated about. I have watched movies and series as long as I remember and their representation and unique approach to storytelling always makes me feel wonderful. So on my journey to Janakpur (my journey to Janakpur). I decided to make films with my friends. I think of various stories but I finally finalise the story of two friends and their fight and we worked on that. And finally here it is.

Introduction

शब्द/word is a short movie which contains a plot followed by two friends and their fight that leads to the diversion of path in their lives. The tagline of our movie is "To the lives unlived". I want this story to be a meaningful remainder to not forget one's dreams in life despite the hardness of the path.

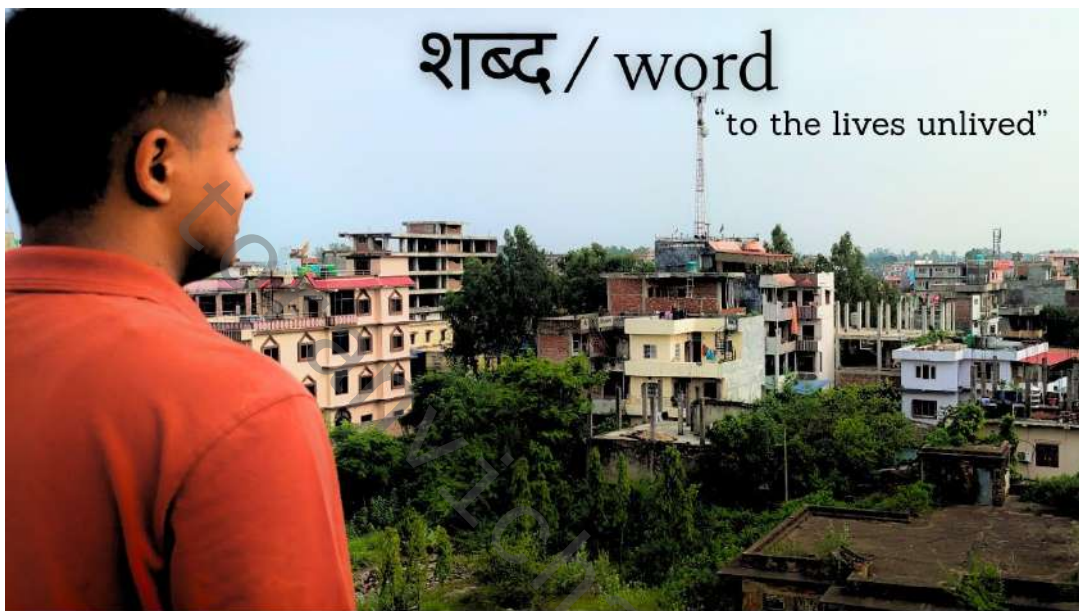

This movie is the first movie I had officially made with my friends Shrawan and Tanuj on our journey to Janakpur. The whole movie is shot at tanuj's house. I am deeply happy to be able to pull this off. Although there are still many things that could be done to make this better or to improve this, still I take this as a milestone for the learning of filmmaking.

I don't want to share any hatred with any community, gender or to anyone. This is just a story followed by incidents and dialogues.

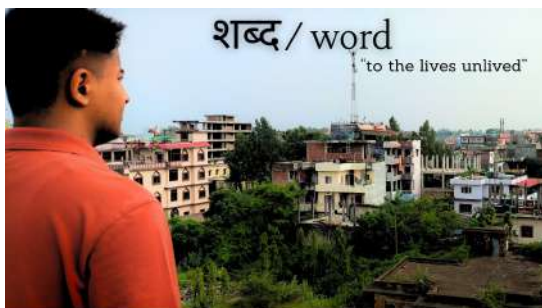

I would like to thank my mom for her constant support and suggestions along with bibek dai for his beautiful voice over which really pushed our movie to a standard.

What did you do?

Nor you live,
Nor you stop breathing,
nor you watch your feeling,
you live like never existed
Leaving for interests in darkness,

killing your wishes in your mind,for what?

More Money, respect, love or parents' wishes?

Being as precious as you are

What do you do?

Work at a bank with a heart for dance,

Work at a hospital with a heart for poem,

Work as a engineer with heart for music,

OK be happy by living as dead

What will you choose? (Risk or boundaries)

Devkota says target for the moon

Let me tell you a secret

You never even look at the sky

To the lives unlived,

Toran

Conclusion:

The movie is based on two friends who had just finished their 12 class final exams. I develop this story on the surrounding of my own life as I am going to start my 12th class tomorrow. I believe the whole point of this movie is to inspire people to follow their dreams including myself.
